A committee of property owners on Prospect street presented a remonstrance against the improvement of that street from State to Pleasant avenue. The remonstrance will not be considered till Sept. 18.

A resolution for brickwork West street from Washington to New York street was adopted.

Trial of Patrolman Hoffbauer.

The trial of patrolman N. J. Hoffbauer on charges of sleeping on duty and drinking, preferred by ex-patrolman Celmar, came up before the Board of Public Safety yesterday morning. The witnesses for the prosecution failed to respond to the summons, and after hearing some testimony from the defense as to character the trial was indefinitely postponed.

Special police powers were granted to Charles Johnson for the Sentinel Building on North Illinois street, and Patrick Cleary for the Denison.

Thanks from Columbus.

Mayor Denny has received a letter from the Mayor of Columbus, Ind., thanking him for the prompt response to the appeal for help during the recent fire at Columbus. He requested that a bill for the expense incurred be sent, but the Mayor replied that there were no charges.

After the Contractor.

Inspector Tallentire has required the contractor who is laying the Alabama-street pavement to take up and relay a portion of the pavement because it was not done according to specifications.

TEN CENTS TO BROAD RIPPLE.

Electric Cars Will Run Over the New Line on Thursday.

The Indianapolis & Broad Ripple electric railroad expects to have cars running over its tracks by Thursday of this week. The company will charge a fare of 10 cents for the trip each way. Mr. Bosson said it was hardly likely that the company would have its own cars in operation by Thursday. The cars and the motors are all here but the trucks have not yet arrived and it is not now likely that they will arrive in time to mount the cars upon them for operation this week. Mr. Bosson says a deal is on with the Citizens' company by which the Broad Ripple company will rent cars from it until such time as the new company can mount its motors upon its own trucks.

NO TIME TO SPARE.

H. S. Schooley Arrested Just as He Was Boarding a Train—His Crooked Work.

H. S. Schooley, whom the police think is a very shrewd character, is a prisoner at the police station. He was arrested yesterday afternoon at the Union Station just as he was ready to step on an outgoing train, preparatory to jumping several board bills.

About a month ago he and a woman, who claimed to be his wife, Virginia, for lodging at No. 228 South Capitol avenue. Schooley said he was a Big Four detective, and that he would not draw his pay for several weeks, and asked the landlady to trust him until that time, which she consented to do. When the two weeks passed the couple disappeared from that part of the city and engaged rooms at Mrs. Wilman's boarding house, No. 806 Virginia avenue, under the same conditions. Detective Jeffries, of the Big Four, heard two weeks ago that a woman, resident at the above number, was passing himself off as a detective of that road and went to the house to see him a number of times before he found him in. When Schooley was informed that he was talking to a regular Big Four detective he broke down and confessed. As no charges could be preferred against him, Jeffries did not swear out a warrant for his arrest, but warned him not to play the detective role again.

Schooley left the city last Wednesday and did not return until late Sunday afternoon. At 3 o'clock that afternoon Mrs. Wilman went to Pittsburgh and left an acquaintance in charge of the house. As soon as Schooley learned the situation of affairs at the house he succeeded in getting the housekeeper to leave. In short time he packed his possessions and those of the woman in a trunk and had it taken to the Union Station, where they intended to take a train for a point northeast of this city.

Detective Jeffries happened to see Schooley and his paramour there and became suspicious. By going to No. 806 Virginia avenue he learned from the housekeeper, who had returned, that Schooley had not settled his bill, but had left the police station. He went to the Union Station to detain Schooley in a talk until officers arrived.

Just as Schooley was about to board a train, he was stopped by a train Superintendent Powell and Captain Quigley came up and arrested him. A charge was made against him for passing himself off as a detective. This charge will be kept against him until more about him can be learned. The woman was not arrested, and she claimed her mother lives. At the police station Schooley said that his home was in Kansas City, and that for months past he has been making a living by his wits.

When Superintendent Powell arrested him he was struck by his resemblance to the description furnished by the Noblesville authorities of one of a party of three who last Thursday night shot and badly wounded John Harris, a veteran and night watchman at Metzger's mill at that place. A telegram was sent to the Noblesville authorities informing them of these facts.

MAY BE CHANGED.

The Methodist Boundaries Conference Under the Proposed Division.

The Methodists of Indiana are considering the advisability of changing the conference boundaries. If the proposed change is made there will be three divisions, the Northern Indiana, including thirty counties; the Indianapolis Conference, composed of twenty-seven counties, and the Indiana, consisting of the remaining thirty-five counties. There are four conferences under the present system, and in each of these there are four groups of preachers, limited to a certain territory. The four present conferences are the Indiana Conference, the Northwest and Southern Indiana Conference, the Indianapolis Conference, and the Northern Indiana Conference.

The boundaries of the present conferences followed the wagon roads, which were best known at the time they were formed. Those who are in favor of the change cite many reasons, principal among which is that in the different conferences the itinerant preachers soon make their rounds, and repeat the same sermons, and enthusiasm, where, on the other hand, they could do much more effective work if allowed to labor in a broader field.

Change is made there will be 422 churches, 4,902 members and 7,067 probationers in the Northern Indiana; 529 churches, 57,575 members and 588 churches, 59,598 members and 3,226 probationers in the Indianapolis Conference. Commissioners are being appointed from the present conferences, who will meet in May to decide the question. It is said that only the Northern Indiana Conference is opposed to the change.

THAT HIGH SCHOOL ADDITION.

Something About the Trumbull Property—Mr. Hendrickson's Charge.

It has been intimated that there was an attempt to place fictitious values upon other property in the neighborhood of the High School in order that the price asked for the Ricketts property might not seem exorbitant. It was reported that this was the case with the Trumbull property, for which John Claypool is agent. This property is on Michigan street, east of the first alley east of the High School. The report was to the effect that this property was held at $2,500, and the agent was asked to raise the price to $12,000. Mr. Claypool says no price has ever been put upon the property. He said he told the agent who was seeking to purchase it to make no offer. He says the agent mentioned the sum of $2,500, but he did not know whether the agent was authorized to act for the School Board or not.

Mr. Hendrickson, of the School Board, says the contract price for the property was $2,500, and the agent was asked to raise the price to $12,000. He says that when he was supplied agent for the school the bid was about $2,000, and when he wanted to raise a five-year contract Frenzel objected, and said there was no danger of the price of gas being raised. The price accepted by the School Board is $10,000, and Mr. Hendrickson says the schools could use coal for $3,000.

Governor Matthews' Opinion.

As a result of the visit of Miss Ida B. Wells to England a committee of Britishers now propose to visit this country and gather information concerning the lynching of negroes. Governor Matthews was asked by the New York World, yesterday, for an opinion upon the proposed visit, and gave it in the following language: "The visit of the English committee to investigate and denounce Southern lynchings is certainly a remarkable and singular procedure. It should be regarded as a medical diagnosis of a disease wholly unarranged, and not deserving of even courteous or tolerant treatment by our people. It is a good opportunity to let England and other countries understand that we can and will manage our internal affairs without interference from their part."

Winnie Smith's Trial.

The Winnie Smith murder trial will not be called in the Criminal Court until the 1st of October. Prosecutor Holtzman said yesterday that he supposed of course the case would be tried here, although the defense has the right to ask for a change of venue at any time. John S. Duncan, chief counsel for Smith, is at Frankfort this week, defending the banker, Paris.

The Copeland Case.

No definite date has been announced for the trial of William Copeland, who shot attorney A. C. Harris last spring. Copeland was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. Prosecutor Holtzman says that Copeland will not be arraigned until a large number of jail cases now awaiting trial have been disposed of.

FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

INDIANAPOLIS CHILDREN BACK AT THEIR DESKS AGAIN.

Detective Ben Thornton Insists on His Civil Rights—Question to Come Before the Board.

The public schools opened yesterday, with the usual first-day rush of pupils. Most of the children assembled in the grounds adjoining the schools of their district and the teacher went out and told each pupil the rooms to which the promotion cards permitted the pupil to go. It was a busy day for the supervisor, for there were from fifty to a hundred new pupils in each school. These were examined, questioned and assigned as soon as possible. Some of the children coming for the first time were accompanied by their parents or older members of the family. In one instance a child coming for the first time was so shy that she would not let her guardian leave her all day. This was only one of the many instances where the little ones have to be coaxed to school and then to remain. There are others who are quite the reverse, and will not let any one go with them. One great relief which comes to the principals of the buildings is that of not having the books to sell. This has been taken from them, and the books are procured from the bookstores and drug stores.

In other years the principals have had to sell the books and keep the accounts, which has materially increased their duties for the first few days.

The stores yesterday were thronged with children for their books. Lists of books to be supplied by the School Board are made out by the teachers. The School Board will supply books for those children whose parents are unable to buy them. It is marvelous how soon the pupils are put to work. In most of the schools the regular routine programme of recitations was begun yesterday afternoon. The pupils were all seated, the classes formed, and order and quiet prevailed to that extent that one not knowing the difference would suppose that schools had been in session for weeks instead of minutes. Superintendent Goss was extremely busy, and his associates were trying to settle matters as they came up. The supervisors all reported to him after 4 o'clock and announced the condition of their schools. Complaints also began pouring in on him, though not of any serious nature. Children and parents called to have permission to change their districts. Others who have moved have to be checked, and altogether it seemed at times like a mountain of trouble to be able to get them all settled.

It is said that Mr. Ben Thornton started his child to school yesterday morning, and that he took her to No. 4, which is for white children. The principal, Miss Ingersoll, sent her home, saying she should go to No. 24, which is for colored children. Thornton told Miss Ingersoll she should stay there, and he left his wife there to see that she did stay. Mr. Thornton will try the case in court if necessary. He says he is a taxpayer and an American citizen, and has the same privileges as if he were white. The child will be allowed to remain until the School Board settles the difficulty.

Prisoner Jumps from a Train.

Henry Hertzell, under sentence of two years in the penitentiary on a charge of petit larceny, left for Michigan City yesterday at noon via the Monon in charge of John T. Green, a guard at the Prison North. When he left the city he was handcuffed and shackled, and, as an additional precaution against his escape, Green put him next to the window on the seat and sat next to the aisle himself. Shortly after 5 o'clock a dispatch was received at the county jail stating that soon after the train left Melaryville, a small town about twenty-five miles north of Monon, Hertzell escaped by jumping from the train as it was going at a rapid rate. The dispatch contained no other information, and the jail officials cannot account for his escape unless Green, the guard, got careless and removed the handcuffs and shackles.

Smoke from the Forest Fires.

Yesterday about noon, when the winds were blowing strongly from the north, it was the general belief that a period of damp weather if not heavy rains had set in on account of the clouded atmosphere. The weather bureau man explained this by stating that the heavy winds had blown southward the dense volumes of smoke from the fearful forest fires of last week in Wisconsin and Minnesota. Several hours afterwards, though the atmosphere cleared up greatly, the presence of smoke was apparent. The statements of the weather man were undoubtedly correct, as several traveling men, arriving in the city last evening from the north, stated that going northward, the atmosphere grows heavier and the presence of smoke is more noticeable.

Blue Gets $1,500 for Injuries.

A jury in Room 3, Superior Court, yesterday awarded Henry Blue a judgment against the Citizens' Street-railroad Company for $1,500. Blue was injured while driving over the viaduct one day last spring. The suit was first brought in Room 1, but on account of a disagreement between the attorneys and Judge Winters it was removed to Room 3.
